I. SESSION 1871–72.

PUPILS AND FEES.

The entire number of Pupils during the Session was 1492, being an increase of 242 on that of the preceding Session. Of these, 851 were Students in the College, and 641 Pupils in the School. Of the Students, 354 belonged to the Faculty of Medicine, 138 being new Students: in the Faculties of Arts and Laws and of Science there were 497 Students, of whom 63 attended the Evening Classes; in this Faculty there were 371 new Students. The largest number of Boys in the School in any one Term was 530.

The Fees received (exclusive of those for Clinical Instruction) amounted to £22,317 14*s.* 6*d.*, being £3200 15*s.* more than in Session 1870–71. This sum consists of the following items:—Fees for attendance on the Classes of the Faculty of Medicine, £6131 9*s.* 6*d.*; Fees for attendance on Classes in the Faculties of Arts and Laws and of Science, £5447 18*s.* 6*d.*, of which £224 14*s.* was on account of the Evening Classes; School Fees, £10,738 6*s.* 6*d.* The total payments to Professors, Teachers, and Masters amounted to £15,628 5*s.* 4*d.*, leaving £6689 9*s.* 2*d.* for the College portion, which was thus greater by £1088 13*s.* 7*d.* than in the preceding Session. In addition to the above-stated amounts, the sum of £2049 9*s.* (being an increase of £26 2*s.* on the previous year) was received for Clinical Instruction in the Hospital, making a total of £8180 18*s.* 6*d.* paid by Students of the Faculty of Medicine in the Session. These Hospital Fees were surrendered by the Medical Officers for the benefit of the Charity, in accordance with their invariable practice.

SCHOOL.

The following extracts from the Report of the School Committee, presented to the Council on December 7th, give a satisfactory account of the condition of the School during the Session 1871–72.

"The Head Master's Report begins with the following statement of the comparative numbers of boys for the last three years:—

| | 1st Term. | 2nd Term. | 3rd Term. | Average for the year. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1869–70..... | 390 | 417 | 419 | 409 |
| 1870–71..... | 442 | 495 | 511 | 462 |
| 1871–72..... | 501 | 524 | 530 | 518 |

"The number entered in the present term is 508.

"The improvement in the discipline and conduct of the pupils which has been regularly reported for several years past, has continued during the last School Session. The Vice-Master's Report contains a summary of the entries in the "Black Book," from which it appears that while the total number of boys in the School rose from 604 in 1870–71, to 641 in 1871–72, the number of boys entered in the Black Book fell from 127 to 83; the number of separate entries in the Black Book from 301 to 178; the percentage of boys so entered from 21 to 13; and the number of entries for each 100 boys from 49 to 27.

"The conclusions to be drawn from these numerical results are confirmed by the reports of the Assistant Masters, who are unanimous in their expressions of satisfaction with the all but uniform good behaviour of their pupils.

"Such being the case, it might almost be taken for granted that the diligence displayed, and the progress made, by the pupils of the School would also be satisfactory; but the Committee have received ample and direct evidence to that effect. There are, of course, some exceptions to the general tenor of the Reports on this point; but on the whole it is evident that the great majority of the boys are interested and take pleasure in their work, so that the efforts of the teachers are seconded by that earnest desire on the part of the pupils to learn, without which the skill and devotion of their instructors would be comparatively fruitless.

"The Committee believe that this excellent state of things is to a considerable extent attributable to the system which prevails in the School of frequently revising the classification of the pupils in all the subjects of study, so that a boy is not, as in many Public Schools, kept for a long time in any class which is either too high or too low for him, but may at any time be removed from a class which experience has shown is not suitable for him, to one adapted as closely as possible to his actual requirements. In this way the opposite evils of disheartening a boy or of making him careless are equally avoided, and his interest in every part of his work is constantly maintained.

"The Head Master has appended to his Report a long list of the distinctions gained by present or past pupils of the School in the College and in many other Institutions, proving that the character and reputation of the School have been well supported during the past year by its alumni."

The plans for the central portion of the South Wing, for the use of the School, which were referred to in the last Report as then in preparation by Prof. Lewis, were carefully considered both by the Council and by the School Committee, and they were finally approved and adopted at a Session of Council on the 13th of April. A contract for the erection of the buildings was sealed on August 3rd, and the work was at once begun. Notwithstanding the subsequent prevalence of wet weather, satisfactory progress has been made with the building, which, it is hoped, will be ready for use at the beginning of the next Session in September.

No want has hitherto been more sensibly felt in connexion with the School than that of spacious and well-arranged theatres for the Classes of Chemistry and Natural Philosophy; and in designing the new buildings, the architect was instructed to provide ample and suitable accomodation for those Classes. It is believed that the plans now in course of execution will meet in a highly satisfactory manner all the requirements of the case, and will thus add greatly to the means at the disposal of the Teachers for giving effective instruction in the above-mentioned departments of physical science, the importance of which is every year becoming more fully recognized, and the Classes for which are attended by ever increasing numbers of students.

For the purpose of permanently commemorating the munificence of Mr. S. Sharpe, in contributing more than half the estimated cost of the new School Buildings, as recorded in the Council's last Report, it has been resolved to give his name to the principal Theatre now being constructed, so that future generations of pupils in the School may be constantly reminded of the debt of gratitude which they will owe to one whose disinterested generosity has done so much to facilitate their education.

The Council have resolved to apply the present surplus of the Andrews Fund, beyond its original amount, in defraying the cost of a portion of the new Building, and to mark this appropriation of the money by giving the name of Andrews to the second Theatre.

A Fine-Art Scholarship for pupils in the School, tenable in the Slade School of the College, has lately been founded by the subscribers to a Fund raised to commemorate the late Mr. Trevelyan Goodall, whose untimely death, a few years ago, was sincerely mourned by all who knew him, and sadly disappointed the high expectations of his future eminence as an artist, to which his remarkable proficiency as a Student in the Drawing Classes of the School had given rise. The President of the Royal Academy showed his sympathy with the object of the Memorial by kindly consenting to preside over the Committee of Subscribers, in the list of whom the names of many of our most distinguished artists are included. It is hoped that the first award of the Goodall Scholarship may be made at the end of the current Session.

The former pupils of the School who in the College Examinations won Prizes and Certificates of Honour were the following:—Mr. C. A. Russell obtained the Andrews Prize of £30 and the Jews' Commemoration Scholarship, and Mr. R. A. Germaine the Andrews Prize of £20 at the end of Session 1871-72. At the Class Examinations in the FACULTIES OF ARTS AND LAWS AND OF SCIENCE: Mr. F. W. Frankland, First Prize Lower Senior Mathematics, Sixth Certificate Lower Senior Latin; Mr. C. A. ### EVENING CLASSES.

The total number of tickets issued during the Session was 182, a decrease of 7 from the number for Session 1870–71; the fees paid amounted to £224 14*s.*, which was less by £21 than the receipts in the previous Session, and the number of Students fell from 72 to 63.

The changes that have been introduced into the organization of these Classes for the current Session will be explained in a subsequent part of this Report.

GENERAL FINANCES.

The surplus of receipts over expenditure for this Session is £947 19*s.* 5*d.*, although the sum expended in house and furniture repairs, and in providing new furniture and fittings amounted to no less than £1981 19*s.* 10*d.*, being upwards of £200 more than the corresponding expenditure in the preceeding Session. This large outlay was partly occasioned by the completion of the arrangements for the accommodation of the Graves and Morris Libraries, by the making of several important internal improvements in various parts of the buildings, and by the growing requirements of both the College and the School, owing to the great increase in the number of Students.

The Liabilities on the face of the account on August 31st, 1872, were less than at the close of the financial year in 1871 by £1467 17*s.* 10*d.*

The loan to the Hospital of £3000, part of the Bacon Fund, made in the year 1857, was paid off in July, and the money has recently been invested in Perpetual 4 per cent. Midland Railway Debenture Stock.

II. THE CURRENT SESSION.

The entries of Students to February 13th are as follows:—In the Faculty of Medicine, 295, of whom 78 are new Students; in the Faculties of Arts and Laws and of Science, 471 (including 141 in the Fine-Art School, and 57 attending the Evening Classes), of whom 257 are new Students: in the School, in Michaelmas Term, 508, of whom 108 were new pupils; in the present Term, 537, 72 being new pupils. Compared with the entries to February 16th last year, these returns show a decrease of 14 in the Medical Classes, and an increase of 67 in the Arts, Laws, and Science Classes; in the School an increase of 7 in the Michaelmas Term, and of 22 in the Current Term.

The decrease in the number of new Medical Students this Session is 19, and in that of new Students in the other Faculties, 35.

The College Fees received to February 13th are £4138 1*s.* in the Faculty of Medicine, and £5481 in the Faculties of Arts and Laws and of Science. These sums are an increase of £126 19*s.* in the Medical Fees, and of £1309 17*s.* 6*d.* in the Fees of the other Faculties, as compared with the corresponding receipts to the same date last year.

At the Session of Council on February 1st the receipt of a donation of £1000 to the general funds of the College from its munificent friend Mr. J. Pemberton Heywood, was reported, and was suitably acknowledged by the Council. The Members of the College will no doubt remember that in the last Report the Council had the pleasing duty of recording their thanks to Mr. Heywood for the gift of an equal sum to the School Building Fund: on the present occasion, simultaneously with his donation to the College, one of the same amount was presented by Mr. Heywood to the Hospital.

III. THE YEAR FROM FEBRUARY 1872 TO FEBRUARY 1873.

RETIREMENT OF A MEMBER OF THE COUNCIL.

At their Session on January 11th the Council received a letter from Mr. Sharpe in which he intimated his wish to resign his seat as a Member of the Council, on the ground that he felt his strength unequal to the regular discharge of his duties in that capacity.

The Council reluctantly accepted Mr. Sharpe's resignation, and adopted a unanimous resolution expressive of the high esteem entertained for him, and of their sincere regret that the state of his health would deprive the College of his most valuable services as one of its governing body.

The Council are deeply sensible of the loss which they sustain in being deprived of Mr. Sharpe's personal and direct cooperation, which ever since he became a Member of the Council has conferred great practical benefits upon the College, to the affairs of which he has devoted unremitting attention, and of his interest in which he has so repeatedly given substantial proofs. The Council feel assured that this interest will not be diminished by his retirement from taking an active part in the management of its concerns, but that he will continue to sympathize with their efforts to sustain the reputation and to extend the usefulness of the College.

PROFESSORSHIPS.

By the death, on March 16th, of Dr. Goldstücker, our distinguished Professor of Sanskrit, the College was deprived of one of the most eminent of its teachers, and philological science of an indefatigable and disinterested votary. The Council, at their first Meeting after this sad event, expressed by a unanimous resolution their sense of the great loss thus sustained by the College, and bore testimony to Professor Goldstücker's assiduity in the discharge of the duties of the Chair which he had occupied during a period of twenty years with great distinction, and which his eminence as an oriental Scholar qualified him in a remarkable degree to fill with advantage to the College.

The Council have been fortunate in securing the services in the Professorship of Sanskrit of Mr. Julius Eggeling, who has, at an early age, acquired distinction in that department of learning, and of whose qualifications his illustrious predecessor entertained a high opinion.

Another vacancy among the Professorships was caused by the resignation of Professor Cairnes, who had for several years most ably and zealously filled the Chair of Political Economy under conditions of health which would have deterred most men from all active exertion. His lectures were delivered with the greatest regularity and success until shortly before the conclusion of the Course, when he found himself most reluctantly compelled to discontinue the lectures and to send in his resignation of the Professorship, which was accepted by the Council on the 13th of April.

At the following Meeting, on May 4th, the Council, on the recommendation of the Senate, unanimously conferred upon Mr. Cairnes the title of Emeritus Professor, as a mark of the high appreciation entertained both by the Senate and by the Council of the singular devotion and eminent ability displayed by him in the performance of his duties under very trying and painful circumstances.

The Council have had much satisfaction in appointing as Professor of Political Economy, in succession to Professor Cairnes, Mr. Leonard H. Courtney, M.A., Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, who entered upon the discharge of his duties at the beginning of the current Session.

Reference has been made in several recent Reports to the means that have been taken with a view to making more accessible, and consequently more useful, the almost unique collection of Chinese works which the College has for many years possessed, but of which scarcely any use has hitherto been made. An opportunity having presented itself for making a satisfactory appointment to the Professorship of Chinese, which had remained in abeyance for thirty years, the Council gladly availed themselves of it; and in accordance with a recommendation made by the Senate, Mr. H. F. Holt, who had for a long period been an interpreter in H.M. Consular Service in China, was appointed Professor of Chinese. The great extension of the intercourse between this country and China, which involves the employment of large numbers of Englishmen in the latter country, renders it likely that a sufficient number of Students will be found to form Classes for the study of the Chinese language, for which this College will undoubtedly afford great facilities and advantages.

The only other change that has taken place in the body of Professors is the resignation of the Kazi Shahábudin, Professor of several of the vernacular languages of India, who has been recalled to his own country.

In connexion with the subject of the Professorships, the Council beg to report that they have taken into consideration the expediency of appointing Assistant Professors, a subject which had several times been brought before them by the Senate. A Committee was appointed to investigate the question, and the recommendations made by it were adopted by the Council on July 15th. The plan thus sanctioned will, it is believed, tend to improve and enlarge the means of instruction at the disposal of those Professors who, owing to the special circumstances of their classes may find it necessary or desirable to make use of such assistance in the performance of their duties, while the conditions attached to the appointment of every "Assistant Professor" will effectually prevent any abuse from occurring in connexion with the plan.

DEPARTMENT OF THE FINE ARTS.

Progress of the School. Donations.

In their last Report the Council expressed their satisfaction with the success then attained in this new department of the College; and they are glad to state that the hopeful anticipations entertained at that time were realized during the rest of the Session to an extent beyond the expectations of even the most sanguine. The total number of Students entered during the whole Session was 122, of whom 86 attended in the Summer Term. The financial results were encouraging, very nearly the whole of the expenses connected with the Department having been defrayed out of the College share of the fees paid by the Students in its Classes.

The present Session opened with still brighter prospects. The number of Students in the Fine-Art School during the first Term was 88, and since Christmas 53 additional Students have entered it. There are at present about 120 Students of both sexes in the Department; and already Professor Poynter begins to find some difficulty in arranging the Classes so as to secure sufficient accommodation for that number of Students. The rapid growth of the School is a convincing proof that its establishment has met a real want, and that the system of instruction pursued in it is one that commends itself to the approval of those who put it to the test of practice.

It will be a just subject of regret should the further growth of the Department be checked by want of space in the building appropriated to it; and the Council trust that means may be found to avert such a misfortune.

The first two Slade Scholarships were awarded at the end of last Session to Miss E. M. Wild and Miss B. A. R. Spencer. Six Prizes of money and books, with three silver medals, were awarded to the most proficient Students in the several Classes, in all of which the competition was keen, and the works executed showed that satisfactory progress had been made.

The first step has been taken this Session towards the accomplishment of an object to which considerable importance has been attached by all who have taken interest in the establishment of the Fine-Art Schools in the College, namely, the union of general education with artistic skill. The Prospectus of the Department contains an outline of a scheme which has this object in view, and provides that all intending competitors for the Slade Scholarships must give evidence that they possess an elementary knowledge of the English Language and History, of Greek and Roman History, of Ancient and Modern Geography, of Arithmetic, and of a foreign language, to be selected by the Candidate, or of one Book of Euclid. The first Preliminary Slade Examination was held in January, when five Candidates presented themselves, all of whom have passed the ordeal, and have thus qualified themselves to compete for the two Slade Scholarships which may be awarded this year.

Several important additions to the means of instruction in the Fine-Art School have been made in the present Session. A Course of Lectures on Anatomy was delivered during the Michaelmas Term by Mr. Thane, the Senior Demonstrator of Anatomy in the College, and it was attended by 31 Students. This Course will be repeated in the Summer Term. Professor Henrici has recently begun a Course of Lectures on Perspective, supplemented by practical illustrations and exercises, which cannot fail to be of great service to those Students who wish to understand thoroughly this important branch of art-study; and in the Summer Term, Professor Bunnell Lewis will give six Lectures on Classical Archæology, with special reference to the connexion between Art and Literature.

A Fine-Art Library has been established, and is open twice a week to the Students in the Department. The principal contents of the Library at present consist of a very valuable collection of old drawings, large folio volumes of engravings from the old masters, works on the theory and the history of Art, and other illustrations of the Fine Arts, which has been presented by Mrs. Grote, the widow of the late President of the College, and which constitutes an admirable foundation of a Library which, it is hoped, will rapidly increase in extent and value.

For a more recent addition to our art-treasures, the College is indebted to Mr. Franks, who, in his capacity of one of Mr. Slade's Executors, has rendered services to the College with which the Members are well acquainted. He has recently made over to the Fine-Art School a very extensive collection of drawings and art-diagrams, illustrative of the various epochs of art and of classical archæology. It would be difficult to over-estimate the value of such a series of drawings, regarded as means of art-instruction; and a catalogue of them, about to be printed at Mr. Franks' expense, will render them, although very numerous, readily available for use whenever wanted.

As apprehensions have sometimes been expressed respecting the practical working of the plan of having mixed classes for the study of art—a plan, however, which had been successfully adopted by the Royal Academy several years before the opening of the Slade School—it may be desirable to state what has so far been the result of that plan in the College. Professor Poynter and his Assistants report that not the slightest inconvenience has arisen from having classes composed of ladies and gentlemen, and the officers of the College are not aware that objections have ever been made by any of the Students to this combined instruction. That it has many advantages seems to be generally admitted; and it undoubtedly is the means of effecting great economy both of space and of teaching-appliances.

Although not immediately connected with the Fine-Art School, the following circumstances may not inappropriately be mentioned in this place:—

The first of these is the gift to the College by Lord Belper of a replica of the bust placed over Mr. Grote's grave in Westminster Abbey, executed in marble by its sculptor, Mr. Bacon. The Council attach very high value to the possession of this excellent bust as a permanent memorial of the late distinguished President of the College, who was one of its earliest friends, and to whom it must ever be deeply indebted.

Mrs. Morris, whose liberality in connexion with her late husband's bequest of his Library has been mentioned in former Reports, has presented to the College three cases of fine copies in Dresden enamel of works by the old Italian Painters, which are to be placed in the Morris Library.

The large copy of Raphael's Fresco, a gift from the Misses Hollins mentioned in the previous Report, has been relined, and is now a conspicuous ornament of the Life Studio.

The last subject to be here mentioned is the thorough restoration and cleaning of the Flaxman Gallery and its contents, under the direction of Mr. Spencer, the Teacher of the Evening Classes in the Fine-Art Department. In connexion with these works, the expense of which has been defrayed out of the Fund bequeathed to the College by the late Mr. H. Crabb Robinson, several important alterations have been made, which will, it is hoped, prove very useful in preserving the sculptures from dust and other causes of injury.

EVENING CLASSES.

The experience of the six years that had elapsed from the establishment of the Evening Classes up to the end of Session 1871–72 having shown that for some of the subjects, Classes for which were then set on foot, there was little or no demand, while the expenses occasioned by the Classes as a whole were disproportionately great in comparison with the results attained, the Council, at the beginning of 1872, appointed a Committee to investigate the recent state of the Evening Classes, and to advise how they might be made more useful. The Committee conferred with Professors of the College and with Teachers of the Evening Classes, who also had a meeting among themselves at which they adopted Resolutions which were communicated to the Committee.

The Report of the Committee was considered by the Council on July 13th, when it was determined that only the Evening Classes of Latin, Greek, French, German, Mathematics, Physics, and Chemistry should be maintained during the next Session; that a Prize should be offered for competition in each of those Classes; and that the opening of the Library in the Evening, of which scarcely any of the Students ever availed themselves, should be discontinued.

The result of these changes has thus far been satisfactory, since, while the number of Classes has been reduced from 11 to 7, the total number of Students shows no diminution.

LADIES' CLASSES HELD AT THE COLLEGE.

The arrangements made for these Classes, as reported last year, having proved satisfactory, have been continued for the present Session, with certain alterations as to the occupation of Rooms, which the increase in the number of the female Students in the Fine-Art Department rendered necessary. The Council are happy to learn that these Classes are still well attended.

In connexion with the subject of Ladies' Education, it may be stated that the Council, at the request of Professor Courtney and on the recommendation of the Senate, renewed the permission which they had granted the year before, for Ladies to attend the ordinary College Class of Political Economy; and during the current Session seven Ladies have entered the Class.

LIFE GOVERNORS.

The sixteenth Clause of the College Act provides that "the nomination of Life Governors of the College shall be subject to such Regulations as to the number of nominations in any one year, and in any other respects, as shall from time to time be prescribed by the Bye-laws of the College." Hitherto no Regulations have been made limiting the number of persons who may be nominated or admitted as Life Governors in each year; but the attention of the Council having been directed to this subject, they appointed a Committee to consider it; and the discussion of the Report of the Committee resulted in the adoption of a resolution to the effect that it is desirable to limit by Bye-law the maximum number of Life Governors who may be admitted n any one year, and that such maximum number should be ten.

A Bye-law having this object will accordingly be submitted for the approval of the Members at the Meeting on the 26th of February.

The Council appointed a Committee to select not more than ten persons to be nominated by them for admission as Life Governors at this Meeting; and in accordance with the recommendation made by the Committee, the Council have proposed that ten persons, all of whom have consented to be nominated, should be now admitted as Life Governors of the College.

THE YATES BEQUESTS

In last year's Report it was mentioned that the legal representative of Mr. Yates had filed a Bill in Chancery with a view to obtaining the judgment of the Court on the question that had been raised as to the validity of these bequests to the College, and the case was argued before V.-C. Bacon in Michaelmas Term. The Council regret to report that his decision was adverse to the College; but acting on the recommendation of their legal advisers, they have appealed against it, and the appeal will probably have been decided before the General Meeting of the Members of the College takes place.

THE HOLLIER FUND.

A scheme for the appropriation of the income of this Fund, which was prepared by a Committee of the Council after consultation with the representatives of the Senate, has been submitted to the Charity Commissioners, and it is hoped that it may receive their approval in time to enable it to come into operation next Session. The principal part of the scheme is the institution of two equal Scholarships—one for Hebrew, the other for Greek.

NEW PHYSIOLOGICAL LABORATORY.

The rapid increase in the number of Students in the Class ot Practical Physiology has rendered it necessary to provide additional accommodation for them; and after various plans had been considered, it was determined to erect a Laboratory in the North Cloister. The work was begun and completed in the Summer Vacation, and the Council are happy to report that Professor Sanderson has expressed great satisfaction with the new Laboratory, which is, he states, found to be admirably adapted for its purpose, and to furnish good accommodation for about 50 Students.

DONATIONS TO THE LIBRARIES.

A Donation of £25 has been received from the family of the late Arthur Young, LL.D., London, a former Student of this College, for the purchase of books to be placed in the General Library, as a memorial of Dr. Young's connexion with the College. A careful selection of books has been made by the Library Committee, and approved by the liberal Donors, and most of the works selected have been already added to the General Library.

Mrs. Grote's valuable donation to the Fine Art Library has been reported in p. 11.

Dr. Fayrer has presented a copy of his magnificent work on the Poisonous Snakes of India, the illustrations of which are remarkable proofs of the skill of the Hindoo artists by whom they were executed.

The other principal donations of books during the past year are from the following:—The Lords Commissioners of H.M. Treasury, the Royal Society, the Royal Astronomical Society, the Royal Society of Literature, the Royal Asiatic Society, the Royal Institution of Great Britain, the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society, the Royal Institute of British Architects, the Society of Antiquaries, the Pathological Society, the Asiatic Society of Bengal, the Statistical Society, the Zoological Society, the Obstetrical Society, the Pharmaceutical Society, the Clinical Society, the Smithsonian Institution, the Royal College of Surgeons, the Quekett Microscopical Club, James Booth, Esq., C.B., Samuel Sharpe, Esq., Dr. R. Lee, The Rev. Orby Shipley, M.A., Dr. Tilbury Fox, J. F. Streatfield, Esq., Dr. T. Stratton, H. Arnott, Esq., F.R.C.S., C. Macnamara, Esq., Professors W. Wright, Bunnell Lewis, Key, Grailly Hewitt, Erichsen, Amos, and Summers.

PEEL MEMORIAL FUND.

The income of this Fund in 1872 was expended in making presents of books and other aids to knowledge to the Working Women's College, Bloomsbury; the Working Men's Club and Institute Union, London; and the Compositors' Library, London.

The Balance of the Dividends of the Fund now in hand is £66 9*s.* 11*d.*

HOSPITAL.

The total receipts for the year ending October 31st, 1872, including Legacies and the balance from the previous year, amounted to £13,145 2*s.* 8*d.*; the gross expenditure was £12,691 15*s.*, consisting of the following principal items:—£2631 1*s.* 3*d.* on account of debts of the present year, £9079 11*s.* 8*d.* for expenses of the current year, investments £1000.

The balance at the end of the financial year was £453 7*s.* 8*d.*, and the debt amounted to £3612 14*s.* 4*d.*, being about £1000 more than on the 31st of October, 1871.

H.R.H. Prince Arthur graciously presided at the Annual Festival in aid of the funds of the Hospital, which was held on May 9th, 1872, when the amount subscribed was £1275.

The Earl of Derby has consented to preside at the ensuing Festival, on Wednesday, April 30th.

The following additions to and changes in the Hospital Staff have been made during the year:—

Dr. Gowers has been appointed an Assistant Physician; Mr. Marcus Beck, an Assistant Surgeon, and he has resigned the office of Surgical Registrar; Mr. John Tweedy has been appointed Assistant Medical Officer in the Skin Department.

Dr. Thomas resigned the office of Resident Medical Officer in April last, and Mr. Walter Rigden was appointed his successor.

Various important structural improvements have been made during the year, the principal of which are a separate entrance for patients, a new boiler house, and works connected with drainage and ventilation. The entire cost of these improvements was upwards of £700.
